Brown Jug Is Winner Of Heat In Elimination

Tomorrow night the El Cerrito dog track is staging boxing and wrestling in conjunction with the regular greyhound races.

Brown Jug, son of My Lady's Gloria Gray, won last night's classy elimination heat over Alder Gulch by one and one-half lengths in 32-3-5 seconds. Pretorred's hit $2.20 on the short field.

Jew Underaker, the most consistent dog at the spring meeting, finished third.

Ann's Dora, who last night was eliminated, leaving six to race next Tuesday night in the seventh heat of this thrilling series.

Owner Vern Shifflett put over a pair of good dogs last night. Red Ann won the sixth at $28.00 and Sam Smart finished second in the seventh race at $6.00. It was quite a performance for the two sons of Ralph Agricola, an Australian import.

Tonight the dog track will put on another of those short fields with Blackface Baldwin racing against Fred Gate, Barney Mac and Genial Wager. Big Butano, winner of the Inaugural stake, is another starter. It looks good.

OAKS RETAIN GRASP ON TOP SPOT IN LOOP

(BY UNITED PRESS)
The mighty Angels, long familiar with the cozy sweetness of the first division of the Coast League, plunked into the cellar spot Thursday, losing 4 to 0 to the slashing Portland Beavers.

The Sacramento "chain gang" whipped the Missions 6 to 1. The St. Louis farm boys rapped Thurston, Gallison and Barr freely, with Adams and Grilk pounding out four-ply blows in the fourth and fifth innings.

Meanwhile the pace-setting Oaks handed San Diego Padres a 6-2 beating. One of the southerners' came on Ernie Holman's second inning homer. Hitchcock tripled in the Oaks' half of the second chase in two runners and the Acorners moved out in front to stay there. In the seventh they slapped in three runs with Lodigiani collecting a double.

Seattle, with Lou Koupal, pitching, defeated the Seals 6 to 2. As a result of the day's contest, Seattle remained a game and a half behind the Oaks, while the Missions rested three games in the rut, and Portland five games to the rear.

Joe Cronin Is Hurt In Game
BOSTON, April 16—UP—Joe Cronin, $250,000 player-manager of the million dollar Boston Red Sox, suffered a double fracture of the thumb on his throwing hand in the second inning of the Sox-Philadelphia Athletics game today and will be lost to the team for almost a month.

Appearing as chief complainant was Gertrude Washburn, 26, who charged Mills bilked her out of $700 during their honeymoon. Theadora Boyce, east bay night club entertainer, was present as an observer.

When arraigned recently before Superior Judge George Steiner, Mills pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity.

His attorney, Al Hennessey alleged that Mills was "shanghaied" when he married Miss Washburn who supposedly is wife No. 5.

OLD PEOPLE find way to keep breath wholesome
Halitosis (bad breath) quickly yields to Listerine, safe antiseptic and deodorant

Either because of stomach disturbances, food fermentation, or the wearing of false teeth, old people frequently have halitosis (bad breath). It weakens others besides them a nuisance.

But now Science has found that the regular use of Listerine will often overcome offensive mouth odors due to the fermentation of tiny bits of food on mouth, teeth, or dental plate surfaces.

This safe antiseptic and quick deodorant works quickly. It cleanses mouth, teeth, and gum surfaces. Halts fermentation and putrefaction, a major cause of odors, and thus counteracts the odors themselves.

Try using Listerine every two or three days. You'll find how much more wholesome it leaves your mouth. How it sweetens your breath. Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., St. Louis, Mo.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16—UP—Claiming that the chemical action of alcoholic liquors on a silver plate in his head affected his mental processes Jack Mills went on trial charged with grand theft and bigamy today while one of his two asserted wives testified against him.

Democrats At Dinner

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Securities-Exchange Commission is being sued by five large corporations to prevent publication of the salaries and other compensation paid their officers.

Yet, simultaneously, the salaries are a matter of public record. The suit eventually will go to the Supreme Court, but until then the SEC is not supposed to divulge the salary secrets of the five firms.

Anyone who really wants it, however, need only look through the Treasury's income tax report sent to the House Ways and Means Committee recently.

Here are the salaries which the five companies pay:

AMERICAN-CAN—H. W. Phelps, president, $121,500; C. E. Green, vice-president, $140,000; P. S. Wheeler, chairman of the board, $76,260.

EVANS PRODUCTS—E. S. Evans, president, $45,000 in salary and $30,000 in bonuses.

UNITED STATES TOBACCO—John M. DeVoe, president, $35,000 in salary and $27,820 in bonuses; L. A. Bowers, vice-president, $18,000 in salary and $27,820 in bonuses; J. D. Cahari, vice-president, $13,500 in salary and $6,155 in bonuses.

MATHESSON ALKALI—E. M. Allen, president, $36,400.

NATIONAL BISCUIT—R. M. Tomlinson, president, $196,500; Fredrick Boers, vice-president, $59,450.

YOURS FOR PEACE—Frederick Libby of the National Council for the Prevention of War, who has offices just opposite the War Department, was selling "Peace Bonds" to finance a drive for reduction of armament. He hit upon the idea of selling them in Hollywood.

One of his buyers was Anita Louise, young screen actress. After her bond was purchased, Miss Louise consented to be interviewed and pose for the photographers.

"Miss Louise" asked one newspaper, "what is your opinion of peace and war?"

"Oh," replied the movie star, applying a touch of rouge, "I think peace is nice."

YES AND NO—The American Federation of Labor, which maintains a regular "relative agent" on Capitol Hill (usually called "Toby"), is wondering just who he really represents.

The gentleman in question, William C. Hushing, recently appeared before the Senate Immigration Committee in favor of the Kerr-Coolidge Bill. This would give immigration officials discretion not to break up families by deporting worthy aliens.

The A. F. of L. is for the bill and Hushing gave a perfunctory endorsement. Suddenly fiery-tongued Senator Reynolds, of North Carolina, burst into the picture. He wanted to know if the Kerr-Coolidge Bill really received Hushing's endorsement.

Hushing stammered, fumbled for words, finally said:

"I am terribly handicapped, Senator. But I have to go along with the views of my superior officers, of course."

"Well, what about Section 4?" demanded Reynolds. "Are you for that or against it?"

"I am not supposed to express personal opinions. But I am going to do so anyway. The section is very bad in my opinion. I would never agree to it."

Starting from there, Hushing ripped into the Kerr-Coolidge Bill and assailed both Secretary Perkins and Immigration Commissioners Daniel W. MacGinnis.

Hushing was particularly reeling in his denunciation of the action of Miss Perkins in disbanding the notorious squad of so-called "Immigration Inspectors" who during the Hoover Administration even raided churches in their drive against colored aliens.

He did not point out, however, that when Miss Perkins fired these "Immigration Inspectors" she also fired Mr. Hushing's brother.

SMILE WHEN YOU SAY THAT—Senator John Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, "The Senator from Iowa is an able, lawyer, endorsement."

Hushing stammered, fumbled for words, finally said:

"I am terribly handicapped, Senator. But I have to go along with the views of my superior officers, of course."

"Well, what about Section 4?" demanded Reynolds. "Are you for that or against it?"

"I am not supposed to express personal opinions. But I am going to do so anyway. The section is very bad in my opinion. I would never agree to it."

Starting from there, Hushing ripped into the Kerr-Coolidge Bill and assailed both Secretary Perkins and Immigration Commissioners Daniel W. MacGinnis.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, April 10.—The manager, people get into the ranks of theatrical entrepreneurs.

Cuigine among them is Buddie "Lead Belly" Ledbetter, now playing the Apollo theater up in Harlem. Ledbetter is known as the man who sang his way to freedom from two prison sentences for murder, and his career shows that he actually did just that.

His story was a sensation to many five years in a Texas penitentiary for committing the murder. An expert on the twelve-string steel guitar, he used his time to compose songs which he sang and played for his fellow prisoners. His staff was so good that Governor Allen pardoned him after he had served about eight years of his sentence.

Then a second murder landed him in the Louisiana State Prison for ten years. This time Ledbetter had to sing his siren songs for only four years, when Governor Allen pardoned him. Since then, "Lead Belly" (so nicknamed by his pals at the Louisiana prison) has toured the country, visiting most of the penitentiaries and regaling the inmates with his tunes. Now he's trying him out on paying customers at the Apollo.

I always knew these musical guys could be watching.

HIS ERROR—The comeback of Benny Fields to public favor, via the Hollywood restaurant, still has Broadway buzzing. Fields himself is back in his old form, after his success. He was recelling the old days for the benefit of some friends, the other night, and remembered merry incident when he and his wife, Blossom Seelye, were playing a vaudeville engagement.

The applause was so tremendous at the end of their act that they and he will be able to state the theory of law upon which that section rests.

Senator Louis Murphy, Democrat, Iowa: "Notwithstanding the complimentary reference of the Majority Leader, I am not a lawyer."

Senator Robinson: "Oh, I am sorry and I apologize very earnestly."

Senator Lynn J. Frazier, Republican, North Dakota: "I cannot quite follow the argument of the Senator from Vermont. Of course, I am not a lawyer."

Senator Warren R. Austin, Republican, Vermont: "I expect that perhaps the Senator from North Dakota could answer very much better than any other lawyer in the Senate."

Senator Frazier: "I told the Senator I was not a lawyer, so I ask him not to call me another lawyer."

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—A touch of pathos sometimes blunts the joy of Hollywood parties. It happened recently at a big evening festivity where many of those associated with the production of his latest picture were guests.

Among the Irish actor's collection of books and theater relics are bound copies of a stage magazine that date back to 1901. As the company, including Guy Kibbee, Ross Alexander and Director Archie Mayo, thumped through the pages, conversation lagged.

The pictures and stories concerning shining stars of the footlights of a decade and more ago recalled memories of too many who had slipped.

In an effort to restore the festive spirit of the occasion, Mayo was coaxed into playing a piano. Soon he was picking out time and half-forgotten melodies from the keys.

As each requested his favorite Mayo accompanied the impromptu chorus until one asked for "Bye, Bye, Blackbird." This Mayo refused, but finally consented.

"I knew I couldn't duck playing that all evening," he said when it had finished "and I didn't expect to."

Only a week before Mayo played it as a last request for his mother who was dying.

"It was her favorite song," he explained. "I ran away from home when I was 16, and one day when I was really homesick, I thought of her and it made me go home. I told my mother why I had come home and she liked it. Just before she died she asked me to play it for her."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

THE liver should wake up every day. If it doesn't, you're in for a lot of trouble. It's the most important organ in your body. It filters out all the poisons from your blood. If it's not working properly, you'll feel tired, sluggish, and your skin will look yellow. That's why you should take a little liver medicine every day. It'll wake up your liver and bile, and you'll feel like a new man.

Love Shy by Nelly Graff

CHAPTER XXXVI
"MARIANNE, this is Sabra. I just heard you were here. May I come right over and see you?"

Marianne gasped, but managed to say, "Why, yes—go!"

A half hour later, Sabra drove up in a big car. As she came up the walk, Marianne noticed that she had aged.

"It's so good to see you," she began, as soon as the conventional greetings were over. "I want you to help me."

"Help you?" Marianne exclaimed.

"Yes, I'm terribly unhappy. Only girls like you, enviously, have a chance for happiness. You're lucky. Trained for something. You know how to do things. If you had to exist in this dull place—waste your time."

"Nonsense! You'll get married and be happy."

Sabra shrugged. "Not in this town. I suppose you heard that Tiny married Monte Thurston. But they're headed for the divorce court already. Tiny's more miserable than I am. Only girls like you are lucky. I'm coming to New York this fall—to study. Will you help me get started in something?"

"Anything?"

Marianne gave Sabra her address with the promise, "I'll do all I can."

AFTER Sabra had gone, Marianne thought of what Sabra had said so long ago: "You are doing terrible things to yourself. What you think is really trying to save you from some of your crazy little ideas. You're too big for them. Marianne, but it may be years before you realize it."

Leonard had been right. He was always right. A future doctor to save him again sweet Sabra. She had lost his love—all claim to his respect—but if she could just see him.

She had telephoned Sabra's but Hickey was out of town. She would not be back until the next day. She wanted very much to see him. But Sabra and her crowd kept her so busy with their ideas during the next few days that she didn't get to Marianne's to see Hickey until the end of the week.

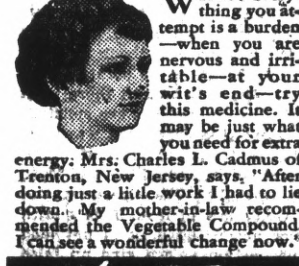

A FUZZY-HEADED girl sat at the desk, engrossed in a love-story magazine. She didn't hear Marianne enter or pay much attention when she cleared her throat twice.

"Excuse me?"

"Back of the shop," grunted the girl, and returned to her magazine.

Just then, Hickey came in, both hands extended, and said, "Marianne! From what I read in this paper, you've gone places. How you had what it takes."

He felt a different man next day. Relieved the Alka-Seltzer way.

Why don't you take Alka-Seltzer for Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, Colds, Fatigue, Muscular, Rheumatic or Sciatic Pains?

Alka-Seltzer makes a sparkling alkaline drink. As it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments, then by restoring the alkaline balance, corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

Be wisest—take Alka-Seltzer.

this, dependence on any person or persons was obliterated and her problem was, in time, worked out with joy and freedom.

Christ Jesus never made a theoretical, merely philosophical, or sentimentally religious statement. His statements are declarations of law, to be understood, obeyed, and demonstrated. He gave the perfect remedy for poverty for all time and all peoples, for nations as well as individuals; in the oft-quoted statement of the law of God: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." As God is Mind, the Kingdom of God is just the kingdom of Mind. In that kingdom of Mind of infinite Love, which is the Father and Mother of the universe, there could not be found anything less than infinite abundance—no haunting fear of lack, no possible abatement or depletion or exhaustion of its bounty. Dwell in that Mind, the object of its tender love and care, the very expression of its own being, could one feel less than utterly secure, boundlessly cared for, actively employed? It is only when one believes oneself outside of that Mind, having a separate existence of one's own dependent on his own or the efforts of other persons, subject to the laws or lawlessness of matter-made business, that care, anxiety, depression, limitation, fear haunt his days and lead him into ways of darkness rather than light. It is God's will that we should be free from care and anxiety—buoyant and joyous in activity. Not that we may indulge our physical senses or gratify merely material desires, but that we should reflect Mind, glorify God and grow spiritually into freedom from the trammels of materiality.

One may ask, "How can Spirit which knows nothing of matter supply money or material things?" The answer is that it cannot. Spirit imparts only spirituality, qualities of Mind, never materiality or things. But when we see that there really is no matter, that "all is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation," we see that that gate of mind, which is conscious of abundance because it is acknowledging and reflecting the only one Mind, God, and admitting as law only His omnipresent law of abundance, will express itself in harmonious human conditions. There will be no lack, because there will be no consciousness of lack, and one's experience is born of one's consciousness. There will be only a joyous acknowledgment and acceptance of knowledge and acceptance of this spiritual consciousness. In itself, the demonstration; anything else is just what is added.

So we learn that we seek and find the kingdom of God or Mind by seeking and reflecting the eternal qualities of the Christ. When faith has advanced from blind trust in God to actual reflection of God or good, we find ourselves dwelling in the kingdom of heaven, and under God's omnipotent law, the things are added unto us. God's law of love never fails.

Christian Scientists are sometimes charged with ignoring evil allowing it to develop, at times, into disastrous effects. Contrary to this, a true Christian Scientist ignores evil less than any other kind of thinker in the world. He looks the claims of evil fairly in the face, courageously and clear-eyed, knowing—in the light of spiritual understanding—its powerlessness, its nothingness, yes, its nonexistence. He understands it as an illusion of the senses, a mistake in calculation—that Jesus called a lie. In its place he sees mentally the truth or spiritual fact. He clings steadfastly to that fact, with positive affirmation, calm assurance, and unwavering trust in God. When this is faithfully and persistently done, he sees that evil claim—may be quickly or slowly—disappear from his consciousness, and so from his experience. If it seems to be ignoring evil, try it yourself, and see what happens to the belief in evil. The same thing will happen to it that happened to our belief in a flat earth.

PRAYER

How can we best come out of the darkness of mistaken beliefs into the light of "the radiant reality of God's creation?" (Science and Health, p. 116.) Perhaps the simplest answer is: Through prayer. Not the kind of praying some of us do at times, and which was illustrated by a small boy I knew. He was saying his prayers on a Christmas night after a day of excitement and receiving of many gifts. He began his prayer by asking God to bless his mother and daddy, and continued his request for a blessing on all the relatives and friends he could think of—quite a long list—then stopped, and looked up at his mother and said, "Mother, who else gave me a Christmas present?"

The form of prayer is not of so much importance. It is an individual matter. Each one prays from his own standpoint, of need or growth. Whether he has grown out of pleading petition into joyful adoration or not makes no difference. So long as he draws near to God—near to the light of truth—with sincere, earnest desire and we bring those qualities to our daily living, we will find that living transformed. To be joyful does not mean to be thoughtless. Some of the most profound thinkers have touched the deepest springs of joy. Someone may say, "I have nothing to be joyful about." But, oh, my friend, you have more—much more than something to be joyful about—you have joy itself: the pure, ever fresh, and fadeless joy, which is one of the indestructible qualities of Spirit.

This perfect light in which there is no darkness at all is simply the perfect love which casteth out fear. The prayer which most completely and absolutely acknowledges the aliveness, supremacy, and omnipotence of this perfect Love is the most perfect prayer. In the light of that prayer we see that man and the universe have not changed since "in the beginning"—or in the only "when the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy."

We are living in that same universe today—now. In reality, the song has never ceased, the joy never been clouded or mystified. The spiritual creation has remained intact, man and the universe unaltered, still under the government of supreme intelligence, manifesting the "beauty, grandeur, order" of divine Love, the immortality of Truth, the joyous activity of Life.

The loving Father-Mother Mind, which constitutes and expresses this universe, in the words of St. Paul, is "not far from every one of us; for in him we live, and move, and have our being; . . . we were sometimes darkness, but now are we light in the Lord; walk as children of light."

SKIN HEALTH

Do you know that if you covered every inch of your skin with an airtight covering that you would die within a few minutes? Death would come in about the same length of time that it would if you stopped breathing.

The pores of the skin are in many ways as important as the lungs. Through these pores, the body is constantly eliminating gaseous material together with water which escapes in perspiration. Even though the perspiration is so slight that it is unnoticeable to you, it nevertheless continues day and night.

Very few people know their skin is in such a healthy condition that the pores can function with their full efficiency. Consequently, waste is retained in the body which must then be thrown out by way of the other eliminative organs. This throws an extra burden on the other organs and is one of the causes of disease.

The uncivilized man whose skin is constantly exposed to the air has a naturally healthy skin. The same is true of the man in a nudist camp—the skin is bound to benefit by being uncovered, regardless of whether you believe or do not believe that nudity is desirable. Our habit of wearing too much clothing interferes with the normal functioning of the pores and makes it necessary to give special attention to methods for developing a more normal action of this important function.

Sponge or shower baths should be used at least twice daily with vigorous skin friction induced by rubbing with a coarse towel, to insure an active blood circulation. Cold shower baths are the best for the purpose as they stimulate the tiny muscles of the skin. However, if you are unaccustomed to taking cold ones, start with warm baths and gradually make the water cooler each time, until you are able to run it quite cold and still get a good reaction after it.

Be sure to follow the bath with friction with a coarse towel. If your lungs or your kidneys are laboring to excrete toxins, it will help greatly if you give your skin this treatment. Also, secure a good sweat occasionally by vigorous exercise. Follow the sweat bath with a cool shower. Try these good suggestions and you will at once experience the beneficial effects.

If you are one of those troubled by a skin disorder, then you will be interested to know that I have several articles ready to send to those who want them. To secure any article you desire, simply write to me in care of this newspaper, enclose one dollar, self-addressed envelope and tell me the name of the article you wish. For each article, send one dollar. Here are the names of the articles: ECZEMA, ACNE (or pimples), ERYSIPELAS, RINGWORM, ATHLETE'S FOOT, ITCHING SKIN, BOILS, IMPETIGO.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Contracted Fingers)

Question: George T. asks: "One of my fingers is contracted in such a way that I cannot straighten it out. The finger does not pain me and a small amount of movement is still possible."

Answer: A contraction such as you describe may be caused by injury through cutting. However, when the finger has not been injured through accident it is sometimes possible to secure good results through massage, through consciously trying to move the affected finger even though a determined effort is required, through stimulating the circulation by placing the finger in a circulating hot and cold water and through the use of electrical treatment. Before advising you definitely whether or not it will be possible to entirely straighten the finger, it would be necessary for me to see an example of it. However, I suggest that you try the methods I have suggested as they may help you.

(Food Value of Persimmons and Flaxseed)

Question: Marion inquires: "Will you kindly advise me of the food value of persimmons. For what is flaxseed used?"

Answer: Persimmons contain food minerals, are about 21% sugar, and are about 65% water. Flaxseed is used principally for medicinal purposes because of its mucilaginous quality. When used in food, the flaxseed is added because of its laxative effect.

(Baby Won't Drink Water)

Question: "Mother states: 'I can't get my baby to drink water unless I flavor it with orange juice. Is this all right?'"

Answer: If the baby is getting enough milk, she only need have any craving for water. However, it should be offered to her several times each day and if she desires it flavored with orange juice, it is all right to give it to her in this way.

Light Rays Have Many Benefits in Certain Diseases

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

IN SPITE of living in a world where the major portion of space and time is bathed in sunlight we know there are people who can not have its benefits for one reason or another. Thus we found scientists who invented another sort of light therapy by the use of instruments which give us artificial sunlight. This manufactured sunlight must also be understood and intelligently used to give us the results we need.

Of course, the agent which must supply this new sort of radiant energy is the electric spark. It is by means of passing this spark through various sorts of media that these scientists have been able to break it up into its component parts.

After years of experimenting, we are able now to have almost any kind of a ray of light we want or need. Once we thought ourselves rich with the violet ray. Now we have blue, violet, ultra-violet, red and infra-red and various other rays for various purposes.

Destroying Infection

The violet rays we knew at first as only a sort of long series of rays as broken up through the spectrum. The blue, the violet, the ultra-violet rays act upon the surface of the body. They will stimulate the circulation, they will even set up an inflammation and we know better now than to use them for acute skin troubles.

On the other hand, these blue and violet rays are valuable for destroying infection. When we want to get down into the deeper tissues, and we do not want to make things too hot for the patient, we have a splendid agent in the infra-red ray, which is below and outside the red at one end of the spectrum.

Many obscure and deep seated glandular troubles can be reached and greatly benefited by the infra-red rays. There are few treatments you could make that would pay bigger dividends than a good infra-red lamp. They can be set up like any floor lamp in your bedroom or elsewhere. I frequently find ours in the corner of our library where some one of the family has read or listened to the radio while taking a treatment. This treatment may be for one of many things, a headache, a stiff neck, a sinus congestion, tired eyes or a felon on the finger.

Frequently, it seems to have been used for drying the hair or taking a "facial," which is a good idea, since the red rays stimulate the scalp or the face tissues. We have reason to believe that the effect of the light treatment really has an alternative influence on the make up of the blood. The blood stream is able by the treatment to absorb the calcium and phosphorus.

Keeping Bones Healthy

These are elements that we must have to keep our bones strong and our teeth sound. We need the stimulation in order to avoid that "let down" feeling, when we think our bones will not hold us any longer. It is not enough that our bones are straight and strong in the first place.

They must have nutriment, too, if they are to keep their strength. The broken bones of advanced age are often due more to the character of the depleted bone tissue itself than to any specific force of accident. It is the same with children who suffer from repeated fractures. They need more sunshine in order that their bony structures may absorb the bone making factors that their food provides.

When they cannot have the real thing, science has provided us with a good substitute in various types of health lamps.

Dr. Chrisman offers readers the privilege of addressing questions to him care of this column. He will answer questions of general interest in his regular daily column.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "Will you please tell me who should be served first, the hostess or the guest? Sometimes the guest may not know how to serve herself and it may cause embarrassment to her if she is served first. On the other hand, if the hostess serves herself first in her own home, wouldn't it seem queer?"—M. H.

ANSWER: It is quite correct for the hostess to be served first in her own home. Indeed, this custom harks back to ancient times when the giver of the feast tasted the food first to prove that it was not poisoned.

In most modern homes, the guest is served first, and then the hostess. This order being kept around the table, it is a considerably more hospitable to serve the guest first. Either form, however, is correct.

A Musician Will Give People Thrills

By TALBOT LAKE

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI, who is conducting a national tour with the Philadelphia Orchestra, is going to give some thrills to those who do not realize how dynamic and unconventional he is. It is better not to be late when "Stok" is conducting. When he takes the podium he expects every body to be seated and to remain still throughout. He has been known to embarrass some of Philadelphia's best known social registers by his attention to them when they tried to take seats while the music was going on.

In his interpretations also he is unconventional. He plays the symphonies the way he thinks they should be played and not in the way they have been done before. This makes it all very exciting both to the members of the orchestra and to music students.

His recent remark that he thought musicians should not have to wear dress clothes is characteristic. He has discovered that they play better at rehearsals than at concerts and has reached the conclusion that it is because they are more comfortable.

In addition he thinks a lot of the music of the talking pictures and some people expect him to end up in Hollywood where he has a home.

The Woman Driver

Women and girls are not necessarily poor drivers. Let the wife and daughter take the examination and apply for an operator's license. Perhaps the man of the house may be surprised by the skill and ability of his woman companion in the front seat.

QUESTION: "I am not the least bit overweight—possibly a few pounds underweight—but I have a fleshy, protruding abdomen. It doesn't look so bad when I make a special effort to stand straight and hold it in, but the minute I relax it looks dreadful. Can you give me a good exercise to correct this?"—Betty.

Your posture is probably to blame for the large, sagging abdomen. To get the correct position, the knees slightly bent and the feet about six inches from the baseboard. Now try to press your back to the wall, especially the curved in hollow near your hipbones. Try to breathe naturally and stay as relaxed as possible while holding this position. Now without changing the position stand with your back to the wall. Practice this until you can do it comfortably and you will probably find that your stomach is flat and good looking. A few simple bending and twisting exercises will also help put your stomach in its place.

QUESTION: "Please give me a list of non-dermatitis cosmetics. My skin seems to be quite sensitive to creams and powders. I also get itchy when I use certain things. This rash lasts for several hours and is very irritating. It also leaves rough patches. How can I prevent the irritation?"—Distressed.

Try to find the foods that you are sensitive to and avoid them whenever possible—or if you can afford it, go to a specialist for treatment. When you do get hives, sponge the areas frequently with a solution of bicarbonate of soda until the irritation disappears. You will simply have to experiment with cosmetics until you find those that you can use. Any cosmetic may be allergic to some people. Try out the widely advertised brands.

Mother May Find Aids To Beauty

By JACQUELINE HUNT

MOTHER'S DAY is several weeks off yet, but it is near enough to remind mothers that it is time for them to check up on their appearance. Girls are so proud of a mother who is smart, well-cared for and young-looking. They like to boast about her and introduce her to their friends.

And they can be so unhappy and embarrassed when Mother, who is the sweetest mother in the world, becomes careless and not quite so pretty as she could be. Staunch and loyal as most daughters are, they hate to say anything about it, although many of them would like to take their mothers in hand.

So many daughters have written to me that I am going to make an appeal on their behalf. If you have a daughter whom you want to be proud of, let me help you do something about it.

We'll start with your skin. Perhaps you are a little dry and pucky now. Then do have some stimulating treatments for "tired" skins. There are grand pick-up creams that you can get. One that is especially nice for the older skin, whether it is merely sallow or blemished, is an antiseptic stimulating cream that is brownish in color and has a delightfully earthy smell about it. Leave it on your clean skin for fifteen or twenty minutes while you have a restful bath, then wipe it away with plenty of clean tissues and cleansing creams.

And your hair! Perhaps it is soft and silky and has just enough of a natural wave. But have you changed your coiffure lately? If people see you with the same arrangement year after year, they just quit noticing you at all. It isn't enough to keep your hair neat and polished. Try something new in the way of a coiffure.

Have a permanent wave if you need it. Go to the best hairdresser you know of and let him help you work out a new arrangement for you. It may be sleek or sculptured or soft, depending on your features, but be sure that the hairline is smooth and neat in the back. Straggly wisps of hair around your collar are more aging than anything else.

And let's see what we can do about your make-up. Of course you use it—or this you do. It bet there aren't more than a dozen women in the country who do not have a box of powder and rouge of some kind on their dressing tables. But there are thousands of women who do not know how to use color artistically. They scrub on a bit of color, furtively, as though they expected to be caught doing something wicked. The result is harsh spots of color that stand out like distress signals!

Wide Note In Shoulders Is the Thing

By IRENE VAIL

New York—In order to give the desired suggestion of width at shoulders, some designers apply little shoulder pieces of the same fabric as the dress and line with taffeta to make them stand out beyond the sleeve.

There is a tacit understanding that sleeves in order to get themselves on the summer program, must be worthy. They are not to be just a covering for the arms. There is a feeling, or a preference for short sleeves, different degrees of shortness being understood.

In other words a sleeve can be any length as long as it is short. This observation is all the more pointed when it gets beyond dresses at it is so wholeheartedly this season. The short-sleeved jacket was one of last summer's fashions, but it is multiplied many times in suits that will be worn earlier than summer this year, including some cloth ones, while separate coats are also short-sleeved.

"Short" sleeves this year means anything from above the elbow to above the wrist, and in the matter of coats, sleeves wind up their length just about midway between elbow and wrist. This length balances very well with the wide sleeves that are pre-eminent in coats, with practically as much width at bottom as at top.

Sweater jackets of the short type also have succumbed to the rule of a short sleeve.

In the town suits and coats with these new length sleeves, it is almost possible to make a ratio between them and the actions of the season's gloves, whether it is the new longer types, or the colors in which every length of glove appears. I advise getting to colored gloves without delay.

New Vegetables in Now To Brighten the Table

By JUDITH WILSON

THERE are 350 varieties of vegetables (including greens) available in the markets in New York City. With such a list to choose from, you should have little difficulty in finding something interesting for every meal. Of course all these are not to be found in every city, but if you shop around, especially in the foreign sections, you can find many delicious things that are new to you.

Creamed Carrots and Rice

This is a good dish for the business woman who must prepare her meals as easily and quickly as possible. Wash 1/2 cup rice and add with 2 cups thinly sliced, scraped carrots, 1 tablespoon minced onion and 2 teaspoons salt to 4 cups boiling water. Cook uncovered until both the rice and carrots are tender, stirring occasionally with a fork. Drain and add 3 tablespoons butter and 1/2 cup top milk. Then cover and keep hot until needed.

Asparagus and Corn

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or substitute in the top of a double boiler, add 2 tablespoons minced onion and cook until soft. Then place over hot water and add 1 1/2 cups asparagus tips, cooked and cut in 3/4-inch pieces, 1 cup canned whole-grain corn, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 3 tablespoons milk. Keep hot until ready to serve.

Rice Pudding de Luxe

This dessert goes well with a dinner featuring spring vegetables. Cook 2/3 cup rice in rapidly boiling, salted water with a few drops yellow vegetable coloring. Drain, rinse and mix with 1 cup pine-apple tidbits, 18 quartered marshmallows and 1/2 cup sugar. Chill and fold in 1 cup whipped cream.

Grapes are always good in the spring, for the period before strawberries become necessary.

THE DINNER SUIT

Mrs. Martin will be glad to answer in this column questions of general interest. Mrs. Martin can not reply individually to every correspondent. Questions not published. Address her care of this newspaper. Write on one side of the paper.

Short Cuts

Cottage cheese lends itself well to salads. These may be formed into balls or slices or it may be passed through a pastry tube.

The housewife may now purchase clothes hangers shaped like her husband's back so his coat won't poke out at the shoulders.

MODERN WOMEN

Two Readers Present Difficulties for Solution in the Column

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

SOME people never know when they are well off. Here are letters from two women each complaining of something for which they should give thanks.

The first is hurt because she is dropped by her crowd. It's easy to understand that she might be, but, if she stops to consider the sort of crowd it evidently was—if one is to judge by its self-appointed spokesman—one can see that she really should be greatly consoled. The second woman does not like her own society well enough to put up with it while her husband sits quietly by her side reading. I can see how she feels let down by his apparent lack of interest in her society.

You and Your Child

Never Jerk or Strike Child in Anger

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

MOTHER held Janet by the hand and walked rapidly. She was anxious to get home. But Janet lagged behind. Either she was tired, having followed her mother faithfully from store to store on this shopping tour.

Or she simply may have been distracted by the many exciting sights and sounds along the way. But mother did not take the trouble to consider either of these. Rather she was annoyed with the child. And every now and then she gave her arm a jerk.

As a result Jane whimpered. After each tug on the arm, the child tried to disengage her hand from mother's. But mother's grasp was too tight for this. And before long a struggle developed between them. Irritated, mother stopped, took Janet by the shoulders and gave her a good shaking.

Janet's mother expected the child's co-operation. She needed it. She demanded it. And when she did not get it she relieved her feelings by yanking at the child and shaking her. This treatment only her resentful. As her irritation increased so did her disobedience.

In punishing a child, there is nothing gained by being unnecessarily cruel. A parent who permits himself to punish in anger is no longer responsible for his actions. And when he resorts to such violence as shaking a child, he might as well kick him, so far as the effect upon the victim is concerned. Don't punish for revenge.

The Husband's Hat

There is much written and said every spring about milady's hat that sometimes the importance of men's hats is overlooked. The man's hat is a part of good grooming. It can be cleaned and blocked, if the budget will not stand a new one. But a new one is a good investment in business prestige.

Grays are always good in the spring, for the period before strawberries become necessary.

to Berkeley will be halted under the order. Oakland, Alameda and Richmond will continue to receive cargo service.

PLAY SCORED

Prior to the commission order both the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce and the Berkeley Manufacturers' Association protested the plan as discriminatory. Representatives of these organizations also pointed out that the ruling would discourage entry of new industries to the Berkeley waterfront and would hinder development of the Berkeley deep water harbor.

The steamship companies alleged that existing shallow water at Berkeley wharves made it hazardous for deep water vessels to approach and impracticable for cargo service. They added that because freight rates from Southern California to San Francisco or Berkeley are identical without making allowance for transshipment, a financial loss developed.

REPORTING POLITICS

THERE is no more exacting news assignment than reporting politics. This is true particularly in a presidential year.

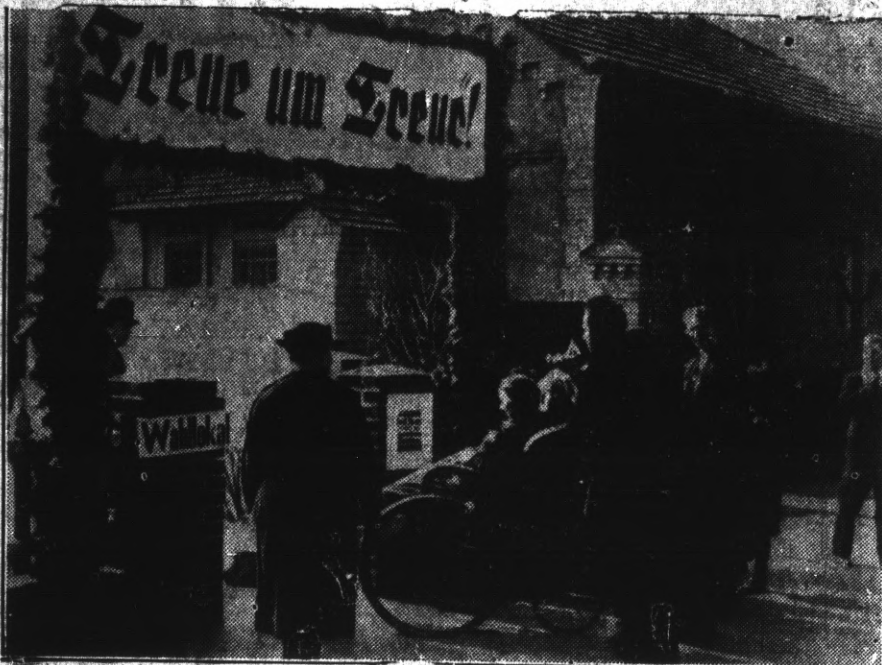

United Press, with its customary foresight, last June began its factual, unbiased, impartial political coverage for the 1936 presidential campaign. Representatives of ten states met in the mid-West grass roots convention at Springfield, Ill., at that time.

Since then expert United Press political writers have been moving across the United States covering the big pre-convention stories; making cross section surveys of various states; interviewing prospective candidates; watching new political movements and reporting day by day maneuvering.

These factors insure dominant political news coverage for UNITED PRESS client newspapers with UNITED PRESS... ACCURACY... SPEED... INDEPENDENCE.

CRIMSON WARNING

A NEW SERIAL NOVEL BY RICHARD SALE

TWO LITTLE red dots, each about the size of a pin-point. That was the only mark upon the body of the victim. The cause of death was given as snake-bite. But analysis of the venom showed it to be that of a serpent never known outside the tropics—and this was a northern island off the coast of Maine. Strange, incredible, terrifying. But there it was—the sequel to the Crimson Warning!

Mystery is but one exciting element in this swift and brilliant story. Throughout the narrative runs a romance as unexpected—and disturbing—as the danger that hovers over it. It's only fair warning to tell you that to miss a single chapter of Crimson Warning is to miss the most exciting of all Richard Sale's exciting serials. Watch for the first chapter. It will appear
